Much waste is experienced in boiling etc., of means. Unless watched, the cook will throw out the water without letting it cool to take off the fat, or scrape the dripping pan into the swill pail. The grease is useful in many ways. It can be burned in lamps, mixed with lard, or, when no pork has been boiled with it, made into candles. When pork has been boiled alone, it will do to fry cakes, if cleansed.

Again, bits of meat are thrown out which would make hashed meat or hash. The flour is sifted in a wasteful manner,

COOLING DRINKS IN CASES OF FEVER -Lam onade is recommended by medical mon as water may be safely given in most illnesses To make this, soak an ounce of pearl-barley in several waters, put it with some lemon peel into a quart of boiling water; let it re main on the hob for about an hour, then strain it. Lemon juice and loaf sugar may be added, if agreeable. Or, boil two ounces of barley in two quarts of water till it thick ens, then strain it and mix it half-and half with new milk, sweeten to taste; and flavor with any spice that is liked.

RECIPE FOR SORGHUM VINEGAR .- TO BIX gallons of warm soft water add one gallon sorghum syrup. Standing in the sun or by a fire, it will become good in about three weeks. The bung of the cask should be left open for the admission of air. A piece of straw paper, or if you have it, some mother, will hasten fermentation. The above makes excellent pickles, though too dark colored to look nicely upon the table. A stronger article (which many perhaps would prefer) can be made by a large pro portion of syrup.
